17 SHS youths cited

Seventeen Sikeston High School music students were awarded honors in state music competition Friday and Saturday in Columbia.

Receiving No. 1—excellent—ratings were: Carol Dupont, harp solo; Gregg Danner, French horn solo; Tonya Hesselrode, vocal solo; Jay Lopp, trumpet solo; Annette Mather, flute solo; and Pam Tanner, trombone solo.

Receiving No. 2—superior—ratings were: Bruce Walker, vocal solo; Stephen Dupont, vocal solo; Megan Noe, Anita Witt, James Booth and Kim MacFarland, French horn quartet; and Bryan Crites, drums.

Receiving No. 3—average—ratings were: Kim MacFarland, violin solo; Debbie Hunt, violin solo; Vanessa Greer, flute solo; and Bruce Walker, Jay Lopp, Holly Hendon, Tim Stamp and Gregg Danner, brass quintet.

Could it be blackberry winter?

Beautiful spring scenes, like the one in this photograph taken early this month seemed out of place this morning when the temperature dropped to 35 degrees, causing Sikeston area residents to relight their furnaces and retrieve their coats from the closet. Spring-like weather is expected to return with temperatures rising to the 70s Wednesday and Thursday. Many spring flowers, like these in front of the Eldon Ziegenhorn home, 1005 N. Kingshighway, have long since passed their peak during the mild early spring weather. (Daily Standard Photo)

Juvenile linked to robbery

A 16-year-old Sikeston boy has been turned over to juvenile authorities following his arrest Friday night in connection with the April 19 armed robbery of the Quick Shop on North Main Street, according to Police Detective Lt. Jack Patterson.

Patterson said another person is still being sought in the robbery. The robbery occurred shortly after 11 p.m. April 19 when two men entered the store carrying guns and ordered two store employees to lie down on the floor.

About $150 and a money order were taken, police said.

Driver's test site to change

For one day only, driver's license tests will be administered in the court room at the Sikeston City Administrative Building, 215 N. New Madrid St. The change will take place Thursday, when tests will be given from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3:30 p.m. in the city building, Leland Gaines, a state driver's test examiner spokesman, announced today.

After Thursday, testing will resume at the National Guard Armory, 300 S. Main St.

MU tuition hike proposed

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A tuition and fee increase of $30 a semester has been proposed by the president of the University of Missouri to help finance salary increases and higher operating costs.

The university announced the proposal today in releasing a letter sent Friday by President C. Brice Ratchford to members of the Board of Curators.

2 killed, 4 injured in weekend accidents

Two persons were killed in a one-car accident Saturday night and four persons were injured in two area accidents Sunday, the highway patrol announced today.

The two fatalities were the 33rd and 34th on Southeast Missouri roads this year, compared to 21 during the same period in 1975.

The fatalities occurred as a result of a single-vehicle accident at 11 p.m. Saturday on Highway 61 one and a half miles south of Kelso.

The accident occurred when

Robert Raymond Wehmeyer, 21, of Thebes, Ill., lost control of a northbound car while traveling at a high rate of speed and the vehicle ran off the road and overturned.

Wehmeyer was killed and a passenger, Robert Koch, 15, of Illmo, died of injuries received in the accident at 3:15 a.m. Sunday at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Another passenger, Danny Cope, 17, of Scott City, received minor injuries and was taken to St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Wehmeyer was taken to Crane Funeral Home in Tamms, Ill.

Koch was born May 26, 1960 at Chester, Ill., to Everett E. Koch of Jackson Route Four, and Lisa Koch of Illmo, with whom he made his home.

He was a sophomore at Illmo-Scott City High School.

In addition to his parents, survivors include: three sisters, Linda, Denise and Ann Koch of the home; a half brother, David Scott Koch of Jackson; three stepbrothers, Cam, Doug and Jeff Bierman of Jackson; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Koch of Jackson; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Eda Mallady of Chester; and paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Lydia Koch of Sparta, Ill.

Friends may call after 7 p.m. today at Amick-Burnett Funeral Home in Illmo, where services are scheduled at 1 p.m. Tuesday with the Rev. Howard K. English, pastor of First Baptist Church in Scott City, officiating.

Burial will follow in Paradise Cemetery near Chester. Pallbearers will be Wendall and Roy Lange, Mike Chamness, Dale Kluesner, Gary King and Christ Ashcraft.

One person received moderate injuries and two others received minor injuries in a two-vehicle accident at 1:50 a.m. Sunday on Route P one-fourth mile east of Senath.

The accident occurred when a westbound pickup truck driven by Jimmy Winkle, 21, of Senath crossed the center line and collided head on with an eastbound car driven by Terry

Cold snap breaks records

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sunny skies covered Missouri today and temperatures were expected to rise only to the upper 50s and low 60s.

Overnight low temperatures hovered near the freezing point in some places and record lows were set at several reporting stations. A low of 30 degrees at St. Louis broke the record of 35 set in 1972. Overnight lows at other points ranged from 29 at Joplin to 37 at Kansas City and Cape Girardeau. Considerable frost was reported from the northeast through the southwest portion.

High temperatures Sunday ranged in the mid 40s to low 50s with St. Joseph and Cape Girardeau recording 55 for highs in the state.

New Madrid GOP names 6 delegates

LILBOURN — New Madrid County Republican delegates named Saturday to attend the 10th Congressional District Republican convention May 15 in Sikeston and the Republican state convention June 12 in Springfield are Charles Spitzer, Tim O'Herin and Thelma King of New Madrid; Dick Spitzer Jr. of Parma; Donald Rone of Portageville; and Charles Ketcherside of Sikeston.

Alternates selected include Barry Richardson and Francis Hulshof of Portageville; Dick Twitty, L. D. Fish and Erwin Lloyd of Lilbourn; and Owen Taul of Canalou.

Major issues unresolved in legislature

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Most of the major issues of the 1976 session still await resolution as Missouri lawmakers returned today for the final week of the four-month, election year meeting.

Atop the list of pending matters is the compromise of House and Senate versions of a $57 million emergency appropriations bill, supplementing state agency budgets for the remainder of the fiscal year, which ends in June.

After suspending its self-imposed April 22 deadline for passage of appropriations bills last week, the legislature set a new deadline of noon Tuesday for final action on the emergency funding measure. A joint legislative committee worked out differences on the bill Friday.

Another $69 million budget bill, funding state building maintenance and construction, still awaits initial Senate action before going to a joint committee for negotiation of the differences in the House and Senate versions. The deadline for that bill and two more technical funding proposals has been pushed back until noon

Thursday, only 36 hours before the mandatory midnight April 30 adjournment.

The House met for a short time Sunday night, primarily in an effort by the leadership to insure a full complement of representatives when work began today.

During the short evening session, 88 of the 163 representatives appeared in the chamber and several more reported in later in the evening. No formal business was conducted.

Among the major issues still pending before the General Assembly are revision of the state's campaign finance law to remove many local office candidates from its reporting requirements, a series of bills aimed at halting soaring medical malpractice insurance rates, statewide court revision, mandatory sentences for persons convicted of crimes involving weapons, creation of a small claims court and protection for rape victims during criminal trials.

Although several bills have already been sent to Gov. Christopher S. Bond so far, only one has been cited as a priority by legislators and the governor.

That bill would require public hearings before a county's property tax rate could be set.

Legislative leaders have defended the session's record so far, saying there has not been any great public outcry this year for enactment of specific legislation.

But Bond, speaking to newsmen last week, criticized the lawmakers, saying he was still waiting for them "to salvage something from this session."

He indicated he would make the record of the democratically-controlled legislature an issue during his re-election campaign, adding that the lawmakers, by their inaction on many proposals, will make the session's record an issue themselves.

Legislative leaders have also said the value of the session cannot be determined by the number of bills sent to Bond, but by the quality of those measures that do make it to the governor's desk. Much of that determination will rest on the results of this final week.

Foreign trade deficit deepens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's foreign trade balance fell deeper into deficit for the second straight month during March as imports of coffee, cars and other manufactured goods increased and a decline in U.S. farm exports virtually leveled off, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said imports exceeded exports by $650.9 million in March, compared to a $140.8 million deficit in February. The trade figures have run in the red since the 1975's record $11 billion surplus.

A deterioration in U.S. trade had been expected this year but the drop so far has been sharper than most analysts expected. Commerce estimated that continuation of the three-month trade performance so far this year would leave the nation $3.46 billion in deficit for 1976.

Meanwhile, the Labor Department said productivity in the American economy picked up sharply during the first three months of this year after slowing in the final quarter of 1975.

Productivity, or output per hour of work, rose 4.6 per cent in the January-to-March period, compared with a rise of six-tenths of a per cent in the previous quarter.

The increase reflected a 7.9 per cent rise in output and a 3.2 per cent increase in hours worked, the Labor Department said.

The latest figures from the Commerce Department showed that the March trade balance deficit was apparently the largest since August 1974 when trade figures were kept on a slightly different basis. The deficit then was $888 million.

Many analysts do not consider a trade deficit at this point to be necessarily bad. The results are an indication that as the American economy bounces back faster than that of its trading partners, imports of consumer goods are rising. That, theoretically, helps other countries get back on their feet so they, in turn, can buy American exports in the future.

But the government is under increasing pressure from both business and industry to stem imports. President Ford has already warned of quotas on imports of specialty steel and has rejected an effort by the shoe industry and its workers to raise barriers to imported footwear. The United States also is in the midst of negotiations aimed at a broad lowering of trade barriers internationally.

In March, imports were up by 7.4 per cent, compared to a 1.8 per cent increase in exports. The increase for exports was the first after three months of decline.

Import categories showing big advances were primarily food and manufactured goods. Coffee imports rose $66.2 million in value, primarily due to higher prices triggered by a freeze which hurt the Brazilian coffee crop last year.

Transportation equipment imports climbed $125.5 million, with $76 million representing cars from nations other than Canada. The designation for the source of car imports is used by Commerce because many cars assembled in Canada are by American-owned corporations with parts supplied from the United States.

Imports of petroleum products, which are a key factor in U.S. trade, were off $53.4 million after adjustment for seasonal variations during the month, even though the volume of oil imports was up.

Items stolen from truck recovered

Police recovered a citizens band radio, electric stapler and two tool boxes early today shortly after they were stolen from a truck parked at the Terry Scally home, 804 Agnes St., and also reported the theft of household items from a home on Alabama Street.

Police said officer Robert Parr saw someone run from the bushes at 105 Petty St. at 3:20 a.m. When he checked the bushes, he found a citizens band radio and an electric stapler.

While checking vehicles on Agnes Street, Parr found the doors open on the Scally truck. Scally identified the equipment as his. Two tool boxes taken from the truck were found behind the Scally home, police said.

C. H. Mabin, 307A Alabama St., told police that someone took two dozen eggs, two pounds of pork sausage, a bowl of candy and two stereo speakers from his home sometime between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturday.

Body still unidentified

EAST PRAIRIE — Identification of the body of a Negro woman, which was discovered about 6 p.m. Saturday in the Mississippi River in lower Mississippi County, remains undetermined today.

The Carroll, Ill., police department reportedly has a missing person report filed March 5 that possibly fits the description of the woman found.

The Mississippi County Sheriff's department and Coroner Elgin McMikie are continuing efforts to establish positive identification.

The body was found among trees and brush along the river bank near the New Madrid County line by Sam Barker of East Prairie, who was fishing in the river.

By JEAN-RENE DUPONT

A near capacity crowd responded enthusiastically to the Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra Saturday night and was rewarded by a fine musical evening — encore and all — at a concert sponsored by the Sikeston Arts and Education Council under a grant from the Missouri Council of the Arts.

To this reviewer's amazement, the Sikeston High School Field House was acoustically well suited to symphony music; (hint) the chairs did not squeak, there was no annoying resonance; in fact the higher register lost a little brilliance. A shell behind the orchestra next year would be fantastic.

The orchestra overcame humidity and weather changes to produce a lively and enjoyable evening under conductor Leonard Slatkin. He opened with the overture to "Russian and Ludmilla" by Glinka — a romantic fairy tale based on the poem by Pushkin. The opera itself is so flawed dramatically that it is rarely performed outside Russia; however, the overture is standard repertoire. It set the mood for the evening with its brilliant pace and heralded in the opus magnum of the evening — Tchaikovsky's symphony No. 2.

This has been called the Little Russian Symphony by the composer's friend, the music critic Kashkin, because of its use of little Russian (Ukrainian) folk music. Both of these Russian pieces show the trend of the latter half of the 19th Century towards nationalism with the use of local lore and folk music.

The second symphony is one of Tchaikovsky's happier symphonies, in which he begins to show his skill at orchestration. Both the first and last movements are very Russian in thematic quality — the orchestra played it beautifully, but in the finale, the wild dance mood was almost too fast.

FINDING THE BONHOMME RICHARD

What American youngster has not thrilled to the story of John Paul Jones, the stalwart Captain of the frigate BONHOMME RICHARD, locked in mortal conflict with the mighty Royal Navy man-of-war, the SERAPIS. With his ship ablaze from stem to stern, his deck almost shot out from under him, the hull so full of holes that the vessel was sure to sink, half of his crew either dead or injured, Jones was asked by the British Commander, Captain Richard Pearson, to strike his colors. Back from John Paul Jones came the defiant cry that has rung down through history: "I have not yet begun to fight!" Minutes later, the main mast of the SERAPIS was shot away, rigging and sails falling upon the dead and wounded, the Americans came alongside the SERAPIS, pulled the ships together with grappling hooks, and in fierce hand-to-hand combat, forced the Englishmen to surrender.

The BONHOMME RICHARD went down, but not before Jones had safely transferred his men to the captured British vessel.

That, as all good history buffs will recall, was on September 23, 1779. Today, nearly 200 years later, an exciting project has been launched by Sir Sidney Wignall, English naval historian and Executive Director of the Atlantic Charter Maritime Archaeological Foundation in cooperation with the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration and a number of others. The aim is to locate the site of the BONHOMME RICHARD and to recover artifacts from this most famous fighting vessel in the history of the United States Navy. Aiding in the project will be Captain Wayne L. Zimmerman, U.S. Navy (Retired), an expert in underwater search, location and identification techniques; and remote sensing apparatus of the most sophisticated design, provided and operated by Professor Harold E. Edgerton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Professor Edward T. Hall, Director of the Research Laboratory for Archaeology of Oxford University.

It is not surprising that a great many Americans are enthusiastically contributing funds to the non-profit foundation, the Bonhomme Richard Project, 508 West 12th Street, Austin, Texas 78701.

SPRING,*TRALA

By HOWARD FLIEGER

It isn't just the daffodils, though they certainly are a pleasant help.

There is a definite and discernible brightness in the mood of the country this spring. The funereal pall of past months is lifting.

You can tell it in the way people talk and in the letters they write. A throb of buoyancy has replaced foreboding.

How come? Things really haven't changed all that much. There still is an awesome number of people out of work. Families are having trouble with the youngsters. And this is income-tax season, a sure-fire depressant if ever there was one.

Yet, there are plenty of plain, logical explanations for the noticeable turn away from anger, frustration and the blues.

The presidential campaign is a case in point. All in all, it is rather bland, its rhetoric more soothing than thunderous.

The bitter, divisive, emotional issues of a few months ago have lost their bite. No Vietnam rends the country. Despite the hand wringing about detente, defense, Angola and Cuba, nobody really thinks the United States is on the crumbling edge of war. Busing, a live nerve with thousands, nevertheless is not the sort of thing that will make or break a presidential candidacy this year. Watergate? Most people just don't talk about it in the context of 1976 politics.

Also, this year's candidates are not dramatic, rafter-shaking personalities trumpeting promises of turbulent change. You haven't heard many controversial, eye-popping new adventures proposed in the campaign.

It probably is just as well — a welcome relief to voters worn out trying to come to grips with past issues that turned out to be far more complex than they sounded in the telling. The simple truth, sensed by all of the current presidential aspirants, is that people are tired of Government, good or bad. They just don't want to hear any more about it right now.

Another thing: The economic recovery which has been under way for months has finally filtered down to the ordinary citizen. He probably has been reading the statistics and indexes of recovery, but these are abstract. Now he finds he can get a loan if he needs it without paying an arm and a leg for the money. Personal debts have either been paid off or worked into manageable proportions. There is an air of confidence, hard to define but unmistakably present. It was not so a year ago, or a few months ago.

To take just one example: The latest index of consumer sentiment periodically surveyed by the University of South Carolina College of Business Administration showed the level of confidence in that State at 83.7 per cent. A year ago it was 62.7 per cent.

What is happening in South Carolina is typical in other parts of the country. And it is important to remember that some areas scarcely felt the chill of hard times in the first place. The real slump missed them.

What all this shows is the tremendous resilience of the country. Its economy came through the most difficult period since the 1930s with very few lasting bruises. A shattering crash was predicted by many forecasters, but it didn't come to pass.

Where does this leave the politicians? They've got a problem on their hands, and they know it.

There is a great deal of talk and a lot of interest in this year's campaign, but they really isn't much actual participation by Mr. and Mrs. John Doe. Take a look at the turnout for the various State primaries so far. They are staying away from the polls in droves, just as they always have in tranquil times.

It is traditional for candidates — especially challengers — to "view with alarm." But it is difficult to sound convincing when people aren't alarmed. Bad news travels fast, but doesn't go very far if nobody believes it.

XXXPUBLIC EMPLOYEE
COERCION
FORBIDDEN IN 32

Despite repeated attempts by municipal union officials to coerce state and federal lawmakers into accepting compulsory government unionism as sound public policy, the overwhelming majority of the 50 states still cling to the belief that public employees should not have to pay tribute to unwanted unions in order to work.

According to a new study by the National Right to Work Committee only 15 states now permit compulsory unionism in the public sector. More than twice that number, 32 states, leave it up to individual employees to decide whether or not they wish to affiliate with labor organizations. The laws of several other states are silent on the issue.

The report goes a long way towards explaining why public union organizers have spent so much time and money in recent years lobbying for a national law which would give federal sanction to compulsory government unionism. Without such a law, their plan to turn public service employment into a nationwide closed shop appears to be doomed.

One of the main reasons union officials have fallen far short of their goal has been the vocal opposition of taxpayers, rank-and-file public employees, and public interest organizations.

Though militant union bosses like Jerry Wurf, president of AFSCME, the municipal union, are willing to threaten the public welfare in order to achieve their goals, many public employees and a growing number of public employee organizations are stridently opposed to compulsion. The 22,000 member North Carolina State Employees Association, the 44,000 member Missouri State Teachers Association, the National Alliance of Postal and Federal Employees, among others, all take the position that employees should have the right but should not be compelled to join or support unions.

According to Emmett W. Burden, executive director of the North Carolina group, "The key to all labor relations is the ability to sit down and discuss the needs of employees." This, he says, they "have been able to do" without sacrificing individual rights.

Interestingly, North Carolina for a long time prohibited public employees from joining unions and employee organizations. The anti-union law was invalidated several years ago, because the state's Right to Work law expressly gives all North Carolina residents the right to work regardless of union affiliation or non-affiliation. The law states that "the right of persons to work shall not be denied or abridged on account of membership or nonmembership in any labor union or labor organization or association."

The prestigious U.S. Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations (ACIR) also has strongly endorsed freedom of choice. In 1970, following a year-long study of public sector labor-management relations, the bipartisan ACIR wrote that: "While recognition of the right to membership is fundamental, of equal importance is the principle that no public employee should be required or coerced into joining an organization as a condition of employment." They added, "the right to refrain is just as basic and precious as the right to join...When the right to join becomes a duty, obviously freedom of choice becomes merely a catchword."

In November 1975, ACIR reaffirmed its position.

We have long believed that compulsory unionism in the private sector, in industry, is bad enough; in government service, it is absolutely intolerable. For lawmakers in the 15 states which permit the coercion of public employees, we feel deep shame.

HOPE FOR INCREASED BUSINESS

There is hope for business people of Northeast Missouri that there will be an influx of people and consequently an increase in business in the new year and those to come because of the imminent completion of Cannon Dam and Reservoir.

Out of county buyers of town and rural properties have already had a decided effect on the real estate business by buying hundreds of homes and parcels of land, often at higher prices than local people are willing to pay. When they start moving in, and development around the lake begins, more dollars will start flowing into the area.

But—business people in all the towns of the section must be ready for them if they are to reap the greatest harvest from the opportunities that will be opened for us.

DIRT DIGGING...
A WOMAN'S BUSINESS

The personal lives of our Presidents are now being exposed to the public regardless of whom it may hurt. President Kennedy certainly was active according to some women who claim to have been part of his private life. Of course the assassinated President is not here to defend himself and the family never knew the woman involved. Therefore we must take her word for all she claims to have done. Well, who cares? I for one do not want to read her book telling of her affair with a dead President. John F. Kennedy was human. He sacrificed a lot for his country. He gave his life. He inspired his fellow Americans as no President has done since. To us, John F. Kennedy was, and will always be one of our greatest Presidents. Isn't it time to stop digging in the dirt? In this, our Bicentennial year, let us all start looking for the good things that our statesmen have accomplished. After all, why shouldn't we leave the dirt digging to worms? That's their business.

BOND TO PAY FULL CHARGE FOR USE OF STATE PLANE

By MARK NOBLIN

Capital Correspondent of

The News and Leader

JEFFERSON CITY

Disclosures by The News and Leader that taxpayers have subsidized Gov. Christopher S. Bond's private and political use of a state airplane have prompted the state to begin charging Bond full cost for use of the aircraft.

J. Neil Nielsen, state commissioner of administration, said in an interview that he changed the airplane billing system after the newspaper reports to insure that Bond foots the entire bill for his private and political use of the plane.

"I advised the governor we had been undercharging and in the future we would be recovering full cost," Nielsen said.

Nielsen, who was appointed by Bond, said he made the decision unilaterally, but that "I didn't go up and hit him over the head with it."

"It's good for the state and it's good for the governor," Nielsen said of the revised procedure. "I don't know if it's very good for his campaign funds, though," he added.

The News and Leader reported last month that Bond was paying only $125 per flight hour for use of the state's Merlin aircraft when the actual cost of the use was about $270 per hour.

Nielsen said Bond had been charged the $125 rate because that was the amount charged to other state agencies using the plane for official business.

He said it had not come to his attention that Bond's flights in the Merlin were being subsidized by the state until the newspaper report.

The commissioner of administration said Bond has scheduled the use of a less expensive state aircraft for which he will pay full cost for a political swing across the state Monday when he is expected to officially announce his reelection bid.

In addition to changing the billing procedure for Bond's personal use of the state aircraft, Nielsen said he has initiated a management study "on the entire flight service to see if changes are in line."

Specific questions to be studied, he said, are whether the governor's office should continue to receive a reduced rate below other agencies for official use of the plane, with the high-way patrol picking up the balance.

A 1974 audit by former state auditor John Ashcroft recommended that the governor's office be billed the same as other state agencies for the use of the airplanes.

However, no action has been taken on that recommendation.

Despite the changes in the billing system to require Bond to pay the full cost of private and political use of the plane, there is no indication he will begin taking cheaper commercial flights when available while traveling on out-of-state business.

In one case, Bond was the only passenger on an $1863 round-trip state flight from Jefferson City to Washington D.C. He could have taken one of seven commercial flights from St. Louis at a round-trip cost of $147.63.

Bond, however, has said he will continue to use the state plane when the commercial flights do not meet his schedule.

WILL TEDDY KENNEDY
RUN OR NOT?

According to the word we get, although Teddy Kennedy has repeatedly disavowed any intention of running for the presidency this year under any circumstances, don't be too sure that it takes him out of it. The fact is that those little signs that seem to crop up whenever someone who "isn't running" is running have been cropping up rather frequently of late. In an interview appearing in the National Enquirer last week, for instance, none other than the senator's own mother expressed the fear that Teddy might be pressured into making the run.

Said Mrs. Kennedy: "I feel Teddy may be pressured into running for President this year. I don't want him to, but the pressures may force him."

"He promised me, he promised me faithfully that he would not run," she continued. "But even though he has given me his promise that he will not run, I realize there are considerations that could make him change his mind." And then, in a statement that could be significant, the "Queen Mother" went on to say that, should Teddy decide to go, she'll not only support him but actively "campaign" for him, anywhere he wants me to.

Nor is the senator's mother the only Kennedy intimate who appears less than totally impressed by the Massachusetts lawmaker's promises. Within a few days after Rose Kennedy's interview appeared, Wisconsin Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, described by the Associated Press as "a long-time confidant" of the Kennedy family, announced that he, too, could conceive of a set of circumstances in which Sen.

Kennedy might accept the Democratic nomination.

Those circumstances: a deadlocked convention, the "lack of a disposition to turn to Hubert Humphrey" and indications that the GOP convention was likely to nominate Ronald Reagan. Lucey said he thought it improbable that all three circumstances would develop, but the possibility is there.

"I think Ted is being completely honest in his serious-like statements about not wanting the nomination," Lucey said. "But I can well conceive of responsible Democratic leaders saying to him, 'you should accept it for the good of your party and the country.'"

In the meantime, pity poor Sargent Shriver. For despite all of brother-in-law Ted's "serious-like" disavowals of candidacy, the press persists in casting Shriver and his candidacy in the role of a stalking horse for the true Kennedy heir. If Teddy really isn't running, the reporters want to know, "How come your brother-in-law hasn't endorsed you?" Shriver doesn't have an answer.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Chap Doesn't Quit It:
Charge Ted Kennedy Exploiting Nation's Labor-Management
Tensions Politically

WASHINGTON — It would take a psychological-political profile of Sen. Edward Kennedy to disclose just why he plunged into the rubber industry labor crisis with both feet, swinging during the hours just before the final contract deadline. Best guess is that Ted Kennedy is beginning to make speed to catch up with the other undeclared Democratic presidential hopeful, Hubert Humphrey.

Both sides in collective bargaining just don't pitch it out in an open stadium. It's all so sensitive that any mishap could send the dollar, the economy, the work force and profits plummeting. That's realism, brother. That's bread, a happy home and robust well-fed kids. This collective bargaining process shouldn't be turned into a game of political touch football. There's no doubt who'd win in a finish fight.

A recent poll disclosed that Americans believe labor is the fourth most powerful force in the land. Just behind the White House, the Supreme Court and television. And that AFL-CIO chief George Meany is the nation's fourth most powerful figure—running tight on Jerry Ford, Henry Kissinger and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns. Personally I'd have put labor and Meany way up front.

So observers, who say it isn't Ted Kennedy's thing to get into labor relations, wonder why he attempted to provoke the polarization of labor and management. Especially at this moment, when national industry, banking and union leaders are gathering quietly and regularly to reach a common understanding of each other's problems for the good of the country.

I refer here to the unofficial labor-management ad hoc group (originally the President's special advisory committee) which met last March 15 privately in the Hay Adams.

In the group are a financier, Citibank's Walter Wriston, U.S. Steel's Heath Larr, construction's George Shultz, aluminum's John Harper and General Electric's Reg Jones.

On labor's side there's Lane Kirkland, the AFL-CIO's national secretary-treasurer, the house intellectual who runs Meany's shadow cabinet; also the knowledgeable eclectic Maritime Trades leader Paul Hall, the Teamsters' Frank Fitzsimmons, steel labor's Abe Abel, and the auto workers' Leonard Woodcock. The Detroit doesn't always show because his class-conscious colleagues aren't always happy with this forthright collaboration.

This spectrum group will meet again on May 3 or 5, depending on how John Dunlop can match the schedules of these giants of management and labor.

They will discuss environmental problems, housing, the international scene and economic stability. They have no decision-making powers. Sufficient is it that they get together in the same room and talk real friendly like, without always agreeing, but always disproving the Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels theory of built-in class antagonism. And here I mean economic class.

As a courtesy they dispatch Kirkland to brief the White House's Bill Seidman, Assistant to the President for Economic Affairs. In turn he synthesizes it for the President and the Economic Policy Board's Executive Committee, which meets virtually daily.

On the morning of Ted Kennedy's blistering telegram to the Justice Department demanding an investigation of the Big Four rubber companies, the Economic Policy Board was briefed on the crisis at its early session. Its members were told how sensitive the final hours of rubber negotiations would be. Word was passed to Mr. Ford.

The President is opposed to White House intervention in such negotiations. Interference, no, mediation, yes. He wants industrial disputes in the private sector settled by the free forces themselves. This is quite a switch from the days when an ancient President Franklin Roosevelt became labor's business agent—a practice which persisted right through the "final days." Dick Nixon always moved into labor crises. During the last steel stalemate he talked air-to-ground with his Secretary of Labor.

Mr. Ford, his Secretary of Labor Bill Usery, Seidman and, quietly of course, Harvard's John Dunlop are aware of the possibility of "all hell" breaking loose. And of the danger of an auto industry "confrontation" this summer. But Mr. Ford is a free marketer. He believes there are areas of agreement and self-restraint.

Auto workers, for example, know what curtailed production means. There still are some 50,000 on indefinite layoffs. And if they hit the bricks this September or October and blow their $200 million strike fund, they'll blow the economy as they did during the last long General Motors strike.

There is a GM man on the ad hoc labor-management "committee," Richard C. Gerstenberg. He'll have his chance to talk quietly with Woodcock. It could all go well. That is if Ted Kennedy and others don't attempt to politicize the explosive 1976 labor-management tensions. Or force the polarization of both sides.

And all this time, some observers did believe that all Ted Kennedy was doing was running in Massachusetts for reelection to the Senate.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Uncovering an FEA
Cover-Up

with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Federal Energy Administration officials destroyed evidence sought by a Congressional committee investigating FEA's cozy relationship with the oil and gas industry.

This Watergate-style cover-up may well be in violation of federal laws.

The controversy centers on last winter's battle over the deregulation of natural gas prices. Only by hiking natural gas prices, the industry and FEA said, could a crippling natural gas shortage be avoided.

House Energy subcommittee chairman John Dingell, D-Mich., was disturbed by FEA's use of public funds to trumpet the oil and gas industry's position favoring deregulation. So late last year, he demanded information from FEA on its contacts with the natural gas magnates.

Dissatisfied with FEA's answers, Dingell dispatched a team of investigators last month to set up an office within FEA itself. The Congressional sleuths began interviewing officials and collecting documents in their locked office.

Their probing sent shockwaves through the upper echelons of the agency. Two officials of the agency's "Natural Gas Task Force," executive director James Rubin and deputy general counsel Eric Fygi, huddled after hours to sift through documents that were supposed to be turned over to the Dingell investigators.

But instead of handing everything over, they stuffed some embarrassing evidence in the trash to keep it out of Dingell's hands.

For example, one damning memo, dated Dec. 16, 1975, began with a derisive comment about how FEA could "shove it to Mr. Dingell," who was then leading the anti-deregulation fight on Capitol Hill. The memo, addressed to Rubin, was thrown out.

Two other memos, one written by FEA conservation expert Lee James, and one written by Rubin himself, were also disposed of before the Dingell investigators could read them.

As it turned out, the committee staffers were able to find duplicates of the discarded memos in other files.

Rubin and Fygi both candidly admitted that they "pitched" the documents, and told us that they now regret their actions.

But now Dingell suspects that additional documents may have been withheld from him. For an internal FEA memo directed that all material relating to FEA contacts with the oil and gas industry be hand-carried to FEA general counsel Michael Butler.

The memo prompted at least one agency employee to turn his files directly over to the Dingell subcommittee. He feared that Butler's office would "sanitize" the material.

Butler's office insists that the memo was intended only to expedite the flow of documents to Dingell.

But the Congressman remains unconvinced of FEA's good intentions. His investigators are now checking to see if any documents were destroyed by employees on weekends.

Our own investigation of FEA's ties to the oil and gas barons has turned up at least one disturbing link.

An FEA pamphlet called "The Natural Gas Story" was actually cleared by the gas industry's trade group, the American Gas Association. FEA officials admit that the booklet, which touted deregulation, was sent to the gas group for review. It was done innocently, they claim, "to make sure it was accurate."

Footnote: An aide to John Hill, head of FEA's Natural Gas Task Force, said Hill had "absolutely not" approved any file destruction Hill as "amazed" when he heard what Fygi and Rubin had done, he added.

INDIAN SIGN: The militant American Indian Movement put off a strategy meeting in Canada, according to a confidential FBI teletype message, because an Indian medicine man felt the signs were negative. FBI informants who have infiltrated the Indian movement had reported a powwow was planned in Ontario during late February. Some four hundred militants, both Indian and white, from the United States, Mexico and Canada, were expected to attend. The FBI infiltrators warned that some of the delegates would be carrying guns.

But unaccountably the meeting was called off. The informants later explained the reason: FBI director Clarence Kelley, who sent a teletype message to other law enforcement agencies reporting: "An Indian medicine man caused the change, because, after performing a ritual, (he) felt the time was not propitious for the meeting."

Proposals given to establish workshop

DEXTER — County Court Judge Harold E. Snider endorsed a proposed county tax levy for establishing a sheltered workshop in Stoddard County at an informal meeting held Thursday night at Southwest Elementary School.

The meeting was set by Joe E.
Weber to discuss Missouri Senate Bill 40 authorizing the county court to levy a small tax, if approved by county voters Aug. 3, to establish facilities for employing and housing mentally retarded and developmentally disabled persons in the county.
Weber chaired the meeting attended by around 70 persons.

B. W. Gunn, manager of the Sikeston Sheltered workshop endorsed the sheltered workshop concept as "the greatest program that has been developed for handicapped people in this nation."

Sheltered workshops employ handicapped persons who, for the most part, are unable to seek competitive employment in industry. These persons, however, can be employed very successfully at piece work in a workshop with their peers, Gunn said.

"Over the years these people have been kept at home with four walls surrounding them," or have been institutionalized, Gunn said.

Gunn concluded his part of the program with an appeal to those present to give the hand-

Liquid fertilizer emptied by unknown vandal

MORLEY — A vandal apparently turned on a valve
Friday night and dumped $3,000 worth of liquid fertilizer on the ground, the Scott County Sheriff's Department said today.

The incident was reported to the department Saturday, but no more details were available this morning. A spokesman said that a deputy investigated the incident and had not yet filed a report.

Protective service offered for the elderly

The South Scott County
Information and Referral
Service, located in the Heritage House, 305 Cresap Place, has announced a new service to help older persons who are interested in having a protective service to check on their well-being daily.
The service provides a daily telephone call by a volunteer caller at an appointed time.

The telephone reassurance service for south Scott County is now operating and is available to older persons who need or want the service. For further information, or to enroll in this free program, call the information and referral service

Funding for new prison in doubt

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.
(AP) — Members of the Senate Appropriations Committee have indicated there is little chance for money to be appropriated to build a new medium security prison in Buchanan County as long as Sen. Truman Wilson of St. Joseph opposes the location.
"You're just wasting your time," Sen. Richard Webster, R-Charthage, a member of the panel, told state officials late Sunday during a marathon six-hour hearing on a $69 million bill funding state building construction and maintenance.

Chairman Norman Merrell, D-Monticello, suggested that Wilson, who has opposed the latest location for the 500-inmate facility announced last week, meet with Commissioner of Administration J. Neil Nielsen state Corrections Chief George Camp and Gov. Christopher S. Bond in a final effort to resolve Wilson's objections.

That meeting was to take place today and the Appropriations Committee was scheduled to meet later in the day to put the capital improvement bill in final form and send it to the full chamber. Final legislative action on the measure must be completed by noon Thursday, 36 hours before the 1976 legislative session ends.

Wilson initially opposed the decision several months ago to place the prison near St. Joseph, but he dropped that opposition when Nielsen announced the location at the French Bottoms, an area just inside the Missouri border but cutoff from the rest of the state by the Missouri River, which changed course during a major flood.

Because of legal problems and intense opposition from residents and officials of Kansas, however, Nielsen announced last week that the original site was being abandoned and the new proposed site would be just across the river from the French Bottoms location.

Wilson immediately renewed his opposition and members of the Appropriations Committee said they would support him.
"It was made clear," Sen.
Nelson Tinnin, D-Hoernersville, told Nielsen and Camp, "that you wouldn't get any money without his (Wilson's) approval."

The legislature approved $7.5 million a year ago for construction of the new facility, but none of that money has been spent. Members of the Senate committee suggested that amount be withdrawn and the $3.5 million called for in the pending bill be deleted until a satisfactory site is chosen.

state funds apportioned to sheltered workshops to be spent under guidelines of the State Departments of Education and Department of Labor. "If managed correctly, they can become almost self-sufficient."

For this reason, Gunn suggested that any plans for locating a sheltered workshop should take into account the location of the greatest concentration of industry.

Results of preliminary study presented last night by Ridge show that as many as 180 persons in Stoddard County may meet the requirements for employment in a sheltered workshop.

At the present time, Weber told the group, around 25 handicapped persons in Stoddard County are being transported daily to sheltered workshops in Malden, Sikeston and Lutesville.

Once facilities are built and paid for, Weber pointed out, the tax levy allowable by law can be lowered. In Pike and other counties, one speaker said this has occurred four to five years after initial facilities were completed.

Weber expressed his desire at the close of the meeting for organizations to make official endorsements of the proposal to appear on the Aug. 3 ballot. He said he will be working in coming weeks to have persons available to speak to clubs and organizations on the sheltered workshop and residential facilities proposal.

fine. How are things with you?" "Oh, things are terrific around here since you left." "I'll bet. You know I miss you guys." "How do you like your new house?" "Oh, Suzie, it's terrific." "Did you get what you wanted?" "That and more." "Well?" "Well what?" "Tell me about your stupid new house." "Suzie, it's fabulous." "Did you get the big back yard you wanted?" "Three acres with a pond." "Do you have a garden?" "We have a greenhouse." "Do you have a nice kitchen?" "A huge kitchen with all new appliances." "Do you have some aspirin?" "Aspirin?" "Yeah, you're making me sick." "You should complain. You're not exactly living in a dump." "How does Fred like his new job?" "Suzie, he's a new man." "He likes it?" "He loves it. Absolutely loves it." "That's good." "How is Jack?" "Fine.
He's going through a do-it-yourself phase right now." "Oh, good." "Everytime I ask him to do something, he yells "Do it yourself!" "Oh, not good." "When are you coming to visit us?" "When are you going to invite us?" "You know you have a standing invitation." "Yeah, but we'd rather sit." "I'm serious. When are you coming?" "Name a date."
"How about in a few weeks... say the week of the 29th?" "Wait a minute, let me get my calendar... the 29th?"
"That's a Saturday." "Yeah. Sounds good." "Okay, it's a deal. We'll be expecting you." "What do you want us to bring?" "Just your sense of humor." "No." "No?" "Just joking." "Funny." "You missed a great party at the Smiths' last night." "They had a party? They never have parties." "They've been waiting for you to move away." "What happened?" "Well, for starters, Jackie's dog ate the main course before any of the guests arrived." "You're kidding."
"No. Then the air conditioning went on the blink." "No wonder they never had any parties. What did everyone do?" "We starved and perspired a lot." "Sounds awful." "Speaking of starving, how's the old diet?" "I'll tell you if you tell me." "125." "Oh, Susan! You've been cheating!" "No I haven't." "

Delmonte answers

'Is it safe to store food in an open can?'

Del Monte's consumer services department receives thousands of consumer inquiries a year. And many of them have to do with the types of containers used for packaging food.

Typical is the question: "Is it all right to store canned foods in their containers once they've been opened?"

The answer is, yes, providing of course you store the container in your refrigerator. Actually the inside of the can is perfectly sterile until it's opened. In this respect it's probably the "safest" container in your kitchen.

Still we don't recommend storing foods in open cans for long periods of time... especially acid foods like tomato juice or pineapple. Acid foods tend to develop a metallic taste when kept in any open metal container. If you store leftover juice in a covered glass or plastic jar, it will keep its fresh, wholesome taste for days.

You probably wonder why the industry doesn't pack those high-acid products in glass containers in the first place. Del Monte does pack a number of products in both glass and metal containers. But let's face it, glass is more expensive... and fragile. So we find most economy-minded consumers prefer the sturdy "tin" can. If you stored the unused contents of the container as suggested, you'll notice little or no difference in the flavor between foods packed in glass and in metal.

Metal cans are sturdy, but they're not indestructible. A can that has been severely dented through mishandling or abuse may develop a leak which will cause spoilage. Small dents on the can body are seldom harmful, but cans with a dented side seam or end seems, visible leaks, or swollen ends should be avoided.

And for your unopened canned foods, it is recommended you store them in a relatively cool, dry place. Although most canned products have a long life, excessive temperatures, either hot or cold, can cause deterioration of food quality.

Polly's Pointers

Remove dog hairs with wire brush

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — No one seems to be able to help me with my problem. I have a big dog with long hair. He got on a brand new blanket on my bed and left it covered with long hairs. I have tried running the sweeper over them, adding lots of fabric softener to the rinse water but nothing seems to help. Do you have any suggestions for removing these hairs from my blanket and the sheets, too. Do not tell me to keep my dog outside as that is what Dear Abby told me. If I did not want the dog I would not have gotten him in the first place and I love animals too much to pen them outside in the cold, rain or extreme heat. My dog is also a protection since my husband works odd hours and is sometimes gone for a week or two at a time. I hope you understand and can help me. —DEBORIS.

DEBORIS — I do understand but am afraid I do not have much to offer in the way of help, except I would try a thorough brushing by hand, perhaps using a little wire suede brush. It will doubtless raise the nap on your blanket and make it a bit rough, but try a corner. A stiff scrub brush might also be tried. How about this, readers? —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is directed to those door to door people who distribute advertising and put it in between the screen door and the screen guard. Ours is heavy, with very small openings covering half the door. When something goes down between them, the guard has to be dismantled to remove the item. It seems that most of them do go down, too. —MARY.

DEAR POLLY — Recently I was in California. While there, I was quite impressed with an idea in a friend's bathroom. She had cut a plywood board to fit over the top of her bath tub like a cover or lid. She covered this with the plush material that was used on the floor and then had put throw pillows to lean against the wall to hide the faucets. This gave the appearance of a sofa and made the room look so rich. —MRS. M.C.

DEAR MRS. M.C. — This must be an idea indigenous to California. Once, one of my children bought a house there that had this same idea in a first floor bathroom that also served as a powder room. I had never seen or heard of one before and have not since. We could never figure out how one could take a bath in the tub since dismantling would be a problem, and few bathrooms would have the space to stand it against the wall when the tub was used. We concluded that it was used to camouflage the tub, as the bath was mainly used as a powder room. My children discarded the cover as not being too practical. Some things may be nice to look at but do not prove to be very feasible for every day living. —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — When your rubber kitchen scraper wears out save the handle. It is great for turning belts inside out when making dresses, or just belts. —GLADYS.

DEAR POLLY — I always save the pieces of foil that come over the top of TV dinners. They are just the right size to use for wrapping potatoes to be baked, and are strong enough to be so used several times. Certainly saves on buying foil. —ANNA.

Ann Landers

Reader says daughter has an obsessive desire to be tattooed

Dear Ann Landers: If misery loves company, please tell that father who signed his letter "Upset A-Plenty" to move over. He was concerned about a college-age daughter who came home with a small heart tattooed on her thigh.

At age four, our daughter became fascinated with tattoos. We think it started when we took her to a circus. No one in our family and none of our friends had tattoos. When Becky was seven she began to beg for permission to get her initials tattooed on her arm. We refused so she "tattooed" herself with a sewing needle and India ink. She kept the ugly design (a cross with three rays) freshened up and we had to look at it for a year.

Finally, at the suggestion of a psychologist we took her to Tijuana and had a butterfly tattooed on her wrist so she would give up the other thing. (It is illegal in California to tattoo anyone under 18.)

The following year, Becky threatened to do another job on herself so we consulted the psychologist again and he said, "Back to Tijuana." That trip she had a fancy rose tattooed on her hip.

Two years later when she begged for a peacock tattoo on her right shoulder, we realized she had a serious problem. We agreed to the peacock provided she would accept psychiatric treatment.

After six months of intensive therapy, the psychiatrist said: "Becky suffers from an obsessive-compulsive desire to be tattooed and she will not give it up because she doesn't want to." He predicts she will continue to get herself decorated indefinitely.

Now my wife and I are going to psychiatrists trying to figure out why we produced such a screwed-up kid. — ??? In N. Calif.

Dear ????: Don't spend too many $$$s. Becky's obsessive compulsion may have nothing to do with you.

Dear Ann: I have been married to a clumsy ox for 25 years. He is a good father and a wonderful provider but he's the world's worst bed partner.

The man hasn't the slightest interest in my need for sexual fulfillment. According to him, women are always ready. Sometimes I hate him because he is so completely selfish and lazy.

When I suggested counseling, he said, "People don't need lessons on doing what comes naturally." I wouldn't cheat for all the money in the world, Ann. I love him and I need him. What's the answer? — Frustrated In Marshfield

Dear Marsh: Dream up a private fantasy and settle for that.

Dear Ann: My job keeps me at a desk all day so I enjoy walking home from work. It's about two miles.

The neighborhood is okay, but I'm scared to death of some of the loose dogs I encounter. Last week one large Doberman leaped at me and tore my stockings. Today another dog nearly knocked me down trying to get at the package of frankfurters I was carrying.

What can I do to protect myself? I have no idea who owns these animals. — Victimized Pedestrian

Dear V.P.: Dr. John Anderson of the Lake Shore Animal Hospital in Chicago suggests that you carry a water pistol with a water and ammonia solution or a can of repellent, such as postmen use to protect themselves. Sounds like a neat solution to me.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

First documented test tube baby dies

LONDON (AP) — The first documented "test tube" pregnancy has been accomplished by British researchers, but the fetus died after about two months, the British medical publication Lancet says in its latest issue.

An egg fertilized in a laboratory with the husband's sperm was implanted in a 35-year-old woman's womb, the journal said. It apparently was developing normally, but the researchers discovered the fetus was in an ovicyst, the tubes that carry the egg from the ovaries to the womb, instead of the womb itself. When bleeding developed at about eight weeks, both oviducts were removed, terminating the pregnancy, the report said.

Researchers Dr. Bob

Edwards and Patrick Steptoe said the new technique offers hope to infertile women who have diseased oviducts.

Two years ago, Prof. Douglas Bevis claimed that three test tube babies had actually been born, at least one of them in Britain. However, he produced no evidence to substantiate his claim, and it has never been confirmed.

Area homemakers receive awards

Women actively working to improve families and communities were honored recently at the Scott County Extension Homemaker Achievement Night. Awards were presented to eight extension homemaker clubs for achievement in educational programming emphasizing family living, community service, beautification projects, support of youth groups and health activities, and special studies of murals, Missouri history, clothing, marriage, equipment, foods, and woman's role 200 years ago.

Corona Essner (New Hamburg) and Yvonne Odum (Sikeston) were mistresses of ceremonies. Cadet Girl Scout Troop 176 of Sikeston presented a bicentennial flag ceremony. Mrs. Essner, president of Scott County Extension Homemakers, thanked the women present for helping to make this a successful year for extension homemakers. Membership and programs have increased in this area.

Tom Stroup (Benton), Associate Director of University of Missouri in the Bootheel, recognized members who had belonged to Extension Clubs for 20 years or longer. Stroup commended these women for their many years of service to their families, clubs, and communities. They include: Mrs. Jodie Gillespie, Mrs. Raymond Gage, Mrs. N. G. Kindred, Mrs. Eula Minner, Mrs. Ed Roberts, Mrs. Leon Dannenmueller, Mrs. Marvin Ferrell, Mrs. Ervin Urhahn, Mrs. Susie Cline, Mrs. Jim Burris, Mrs. Rogers Patterson, Mrs. Harold Rogers, Mrs. Paul Pattengill, Mrs. Ralph Rogers, Mrs. Tom Hamilton, Mrs. Elphart Hughes, Mrs. Alex Burger, Mrs. Jim Dumey, Mrs. Charles Grojean, Mrs. Henry Niederborn, Mrs. Clyde Barnes, Mrs. Charles Heuring, Mrs. Anna Rogers, Mrs. William Rogers, Mrs. Ervin LeGrand, Mrs. Monroe Bollinger, Mrs. Idella Johnson. Stroup also presented certificates of achievement and recognition to club presidents or acting presidents including Cynthia French (Painton), Sue Brock-meyer (Scott City), Mrs. Jo Laura (Haywood City), Leora Newman (McMullin), Mary Glastetter (New Hamburg), Yvonne Odum (Sikeston), Nancy Ashcraft (Benton), and Jodie Gillespie (Sikeston). Record books donated by the Production Credit Association were given to each club.

Mary Jo Herde, Area Child & Family Development Specialist serving as consultant to Scott County Extension Clubs, installed the new officers. Ms. Herde said, "Today's woman has many roles and not the least of these is that of homemaker. Extension Clubs provide Scott county women the opportunity to learn skills which help improve their homemaking effectiveness. Ms. Herde presented Corona Essner with a pin and flower for services to Scott County Extension Homemakers Association as president. New officers installed for '76-77 were President: Margie Scheeter, Vice-President: Cletta Pattengill, Treasurer: Nancy Ashcraft, Reporter: Dorothy Dirnberger, Historian: Sue Brockmeyer, Song Leader: Corona Essner.

Alice Hill (Kewanee) shared experiences while attending the Associated Country Women of the World meeting in Perth, Australia with the group. Mrs. Hill commented on the friendliness of the Australian people and showed slides and momentos from her trip.

Meetings slated for tonight

The programs for this meeting will feature the junior and senior high school counselors.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary will meet at 7 p.m. this evening at the Heritage House.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

On March 16, 1776, the townspeople of Stratford, Conn., were enraged to learn that a newborn baby had been named by its Tory parents for British Gen. Thomas Gage. Some considered tar and feathers, a common vigilante action, for the child's parents, but were stopped by the Town Council. The World Almanac recalls.

Jesse Owens, winner of four Gold Medals in the 1936 Olympics, was the first American to receive a $100 Canadian Olympic Gold Coin minted for the 1976 Montreal summer games. Canadian Ambassador to the United States, J. H. Warren (right), presented the coin at a Washington ceremony. Jack J. Pinyan (left), U.S. Director of the Canadian Olympic coin program, said American purchases of both gold and sterling silver coins will raise $1,000,000 for the U.S. olympic teams.

Ziegler cashes in chips

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A nasty, testing little three-foot putt on the final hole nailed down the victory for Larry Ziegler.

But the happy-go-lucky guy actually won the New Orleans Open with four strokes of the wedge earlier in the week.

"I chipped in four times for the week — twice on Thursday and twice on Saturday," Ziegler said after he'd holed that last tough putt Sunday for a 70 and a one-stroke decision over Victor Regalado.

"That's a difference of maybe eight strokes. That's what won the golf tournament. You can go for two months without chipping in, and then I do it four times in a week. Those four strokes were really the difference."

But those four strokes didn't ease the pressure of the last one.

Ziegler, who'd started the final round with a two-stroke lead, held the advantage throughout the warm, sunny day but saw it cut to a single shot by Regalado's six-foot birdie putt on the 16th hole.

He still led by one when he stood in the middle of the 18th green. Regalado had just finished his regulation, two-putt par and had his 13 under par total safely recorded.

Now Ziegler, a 10-year journeyman, needed to get down in two from 25 feet to score only his third victory.

He lagged up his first putt, and it stopped some three feet short.

"The crowd went, 'ohhhh, ahhhh.' They were telling me something. They were telling me I'd left it short and I was in trouble, but, hell, I knew that," he said.

As he surveyed that tough one "my heart was in over-time," he said. "I just told myself, 'Go ahead and hit it — the worst you can do is miss it.'"

But Ziegler made it, finishing off a 274 total, 14 under par on the 7,080-yard Lakewood Country Club course. Regalado's closing 69 left him one stroke back at 275. British Open champion Tom Watson matched the course record with a 64 that lifted him into third place at 276. Watson, however, started the final round eight shots back and never really got in the title hunt.

Jack Nicklaus shot himself out of it early in the day. He flailed away to a double bogey seven — his third double bogey in nine holes, going back to Saturday's third round — was six shots back and never really recovered.

He finished with a 69 and 278 along with defending champion Billy Casper, Jim Colbert, Lee Elder, Gene Littler and Gibby Gilbert. Gilbert and Littler had closing 68s. Colbert, Casper and Elder 70s.

Hubert Green matched par 72 as the playing partner of Ziegler and Regalado and was at 279.

Monday gets the flag

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chicago Cubs center fielder Rick Monday broke up a flag-burning demonstration Sunday during the Los Angeles-Chicago National League game at Dodger Stadium.

The fans, later identified as William Thomas, 35, of Eldon, Mo., and a 15-year-old juvenile, leaped out of the left field pavilion as the Dodgers came to bat in the fourth inning. One spread out an American flag and appeared ready to set the flag on fire.

Monday raced between the two and grabbed the flag.

"I saw them as soon as they came onto the field," Monday said after the game. "At first I didn't know what they were doing but then I saw the flag and the matches. I just rushed over and grabbed the flag away from them."

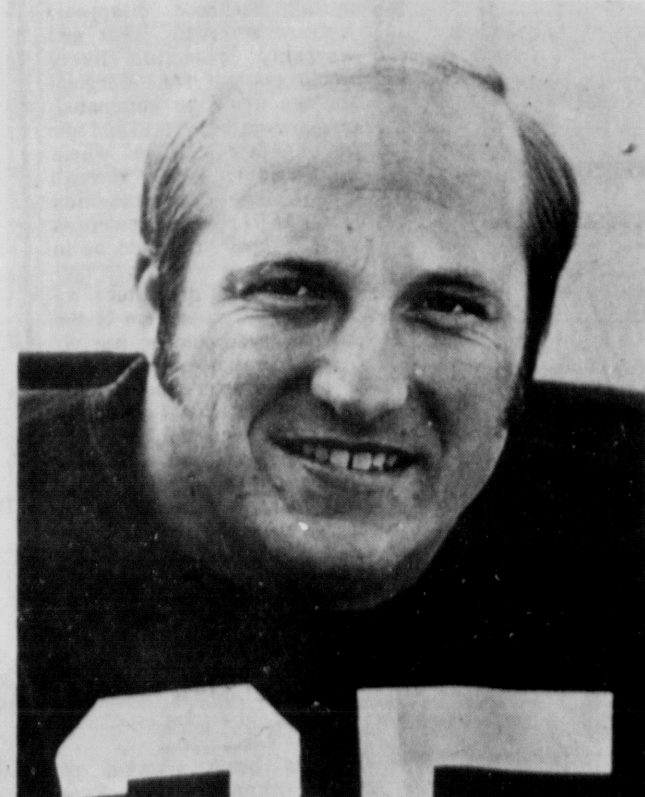

Monday was accorded a standing ovation by the crowd of 25,167 and the Dodger Stadium message board read, "Rick Monday, you made a great play."

Big Red's Otis to be in Malden Thursday night

MALDEN — St. Louis Football Cardinal running back Jim Otis will be the featured speaker this Thursday night, April 29, at the Malden Booster Club All-Sports Banquet.

The event will get underway at 6:30 at the Malden Community Center. All boy and girl athletes at Malden High School will be honored.

Otis led the NFC in rushing in 1975 with 1,076 yards in 269 carries, teaming with the more spectacular Terry Metcalf to give the big Red their most consistent rushing attack since their move to St. Louis. The former Ohio State star, who previously played with the New Orleans Saints and Kansas City Chiefs in the National Football League, will be entering his seventh pro season this fall.

Cavaliers can eliminate Bullets with win tonight

By The Associated Press

The Cleveland Cavaliers, dancing their way through the National Basketball Association playoffs, are doing the hustle the way it's supposed to be done.

And if they keep it up tonight, they'll hustle high-powered Washington right off the court and step into the semi-finals.

The Cavaliers, in the playoff for the first time in their six-year history, lead the Bullets 3-2 in the best-of-seven series, thanks to dashing Dick Snyder, who ran into foul trouble but still managed to run up 26 points in Cleveland's fifth-game victory Thursday night, a 92-91 squeaker.

In tonight's other quarter-final playoff, the Golden State Warriors, the NBA's defending champions and the winningest team in the league this season, take a 2-1 lead into Game Four in Detroit. The Warriors ran away from the Pistons in the fourth period last Saturday and won 113-96.

In Sunday's two playoffs, Buffalo beat Boston 98-93 for its first victory in three games against the Celtics and Seattle stayed alive with a 114-108 victory over Phoenix. The Suns lead 3-2 in that series, which resumes Tuesday night in Phoenix. Boston is at Buffalo again Wednesday night.

The Warriors figure to stick with their winning formula against Detroit — smothering Pistons' center Bob Lanier. He had 23 points and 16 rebounds in Saturday's game — but only six points and three rebounds in the second half.

"They were double and triple teaming me in the second half," Lanier said. "We had the open shots but weren't hitting them and that's a 15-foot shot, the kind a professional team should make."

Phil Smith led Golden State with 34 points and Jamaal Wilkes, who had just two points in the first three quarters, added 15 in the final period.

David Pearson off to his best NASCAR start

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. — "If it's your time to win," said David Pearson, "it's your time and you're going to win."

After his best start ever on the Winston Cup NASCAR circuit, no one can argue with Pearson's racing philosophy. In his first five starts this season, he has been victorious four times. The only time he failed to visit the winner's circle was in the Carolina 500 at N. C. Motor Speedway where he was sidelined by mechanical problems.

Because of his remarkable record in the first fourth of the season, he has a chance to make this bicentennial year so memorable that auto racing fans will remember it 200 years from now.

No one, including Pearson, thought it was possible to accomplish what he did in 1973 — a record-shattering 10 super speedway triumphs on the Winston Cup circuit. And what made his achievement even more amazing in the highly competitive Grand National division was that he competed in only 16 of the 30 events.

Yet Pearson has the opportunity to surpass or at least match that year's accomplishments.

"It has to be my best start ever," said Pearson, who has earned over $1,530,000 during his illustrious career. "I never had won Daytona and Riverside before."

Does his philosophy, coupled with an almost perfect beginning to 1976, mean he's going to annihilate the records he established in '73?

There is a long pause before Pearson replies. "That would be hard to do," he begins slowly. "But if everything keeps falling like it has, I can do it."

He stops. There is little doubt his mind is flashing back to '73. "I didn't think anyone could have that kind of year back then," he adds. "It would be awfully difficult to do that again. But I think it is possible to match '73."

The main reason why Pearson believes this could be his year of destiny is what transpired during the Atlanta 500 and the Rebel 500 at Darlington, S. C. — two of the four events he's won.

"I got a lap down at both places (because of cut tires), yet I was able to make it up both times," he said. "And right after I lost that lap at Darlington, I went back out and ran over the same thing (on the track) that I had cut the first one on and another tire was going down. But a caution came out and I didn't lose any more (laps). If it hadn't been my time, I would have."

This belief is also how he explains the difference between this year and 1975 when he won only three races in his worst seasons in the Wood Brothers Purlator Mercury. "Nothing is really changed from last year. We aren't doing anything different."

"Last year we thought we could have won a lot more, but something always happened. It just wasn't my time."

Don't be surprised if it's "his time" in the Winston 500 on May 2 at Alabama International Motor Speedway. He has won the event in three of the last four years.

Dear Three-Eye:
Recently the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Antitrust Monopoly, by a vote of 4 to 3, ordered reported to the full committee a proposal to break up the 20 largest petroleum companies. No major company would be able to engage in more than one of the basic phases of the petroleum industry: production, transportation and refining-marketing. With some exceptions in refining-marketing, those majors now involved in two, three or four of these operations would be required to divest themselves of all but one. This is called vertical divestiture or vertical dismemberment.

While there is some question as to whether the bill will be reported out of full committee, there is a strong likelihood an attempt will be made to attach the proposal as an amendment to some bill presently before the Senate.

This measure must be considered either as punishment against the oil industry or as the first of several steps to break up all large companies, hastening our way toward ultimate nationalization of industry and socialism.

What would be the consequences of dismemberment of the petroleum industry?

1. Cost to the consumer would go up. The reason for vertical integration in the petroleum industry as well as many other integrated industries is efficiency of operation. If an integrated industry is fragmented into several companies — if the middle man is legislated back in — if an assured source of supply of product from the wellhead through the refinery to the service station is not maintained — the consumer will pay.

2. The nation will become even more dependent upon high priced foreign oil. A fragmented oil industry could not negotiate as effectively with the O.P.E.C. cartel which has already quadrupled crude oil prices in the last four years. A host of smaller companies, each with severely limited ability to generate capital, would find it much more difficult to undertake the vast expenditures necessary to locate new oil reserves and make safe domestic petroleum energy available to the public.

3. If transportation were spun off, who could finance the billion dollar Alaskan pipeline — the vast network of pipelines existing throughout the country — or the fleets of tankers now used for product transportation?

4. The marketing role of the independent service station dealer would be greatly changed if not destroyed. If petroleum companies were forced to sell off their marketing facilities, how many dealers could afford to buy their 100,000-300,000 dollar station? It is likely they would be swallowed up by large chain store operations who may wish to operate through salaried employees. Brand names would in all likelihood disappear. Nationwide credit cards and warranty protection likely would not survive. Marginal stations would be eliminated, primarily those in rural and low income areas. The whole marketing system, through independent businessmen acting as jobbers and dealers as we now know it, would be in jeopardy.

The result of divestiture, an arbitrary fragmentation of the oil industry, would be less efficient operation, increased cost to the consumer and greater dependence upon politically insecure foreign supplies which can be turned off and on at will.

Congress should be doing something to formulate an energy policy that would increase our supply of safe domestic energy, not playing to the political policy of "sock it to Big Oil."

Very truly yours,
John H. Denman
Executive Director
Missouri Oil Council

Dr. Lamb Worry over husband's health

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What does one do with a 48-year-old husband who won't take care of his health?

He's a big man, 6 feet 2 and weighs 200 pounds. Two years ago the doctor found he had very high blood pressure and gave him some medicines and told him to come back in three weeks. He never went back. He gets very little exercise, eats no breakfast except for two cups of coffee and fruit juice, eats no lunch and has a good evening meal. He has two cocktails before dinner and several after. He is in bed by 10:30 week nights and 11 or so on weekends. He sits at a desk all day.

He suffers terrible headaches and eats aspirin like he can't get enough of it. His mother died of a stroke at age 57 and I am afraid he is heading in the same direction. His father is hale and hearty in his middle 70s and my husband says he takes after his father and will live to a ripe old age. His father is four inches shorter and 50 pounds lighter. He doesn't drink or smoke. My husband stopped smoking 10 years ago so I know that's in his favor.

Our sex life has gone down the drain. He says it makes his heart beat too fast and for an hour or so afterwards. I love him, Doctor, and don't want to be a widow. I am only 44 and we still have four children at home. If you'd comment on whether blood pressure is inherited or not I would be most grateful.

DEAR READER — You have good reason to be concerned. There is an inherited tendency toward high blood pressure. Anyone who has high blood pressure certainly deserves careful evaluation and should then have regular medical supervision. If necessary, medicine should be taken. Elimination of any evidence of excess fat in a person who has high blood pressure is exceedingly important. High blood pressure significantly increases the likelihood of having a heart attack or a stroke.

From the sounds of your husband's diet it is most unsatisfactory. Individuals usually are not successful in controlling their weight by eating little or no breakfast, little or no lunch and having one large meal a day. That large meal usually contains so many calories that it defeats all the earlier efforts.

The alcohol contributes to his calorie intake. A high alcohol intake with poor dietary habits is a set up for developing liver disease and other problems.

If sexual activity produces a significant strain on your husband, his health must be sufficiently bad that he really does need help. Persistent fast heart rate after a modest amount of exercise is not normal. Your husband needs to see a good, conscientious doctor, and he needs to become a good, conscientious patient. Between the two a great deal can be done to improve his chances of survival with good health. A major change in his habits might enable him to eliminate his headaches, regain his health and really enjoy the increased life span that he could have.

For information on how your blood pressure works send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 1-8, Blood Pressure. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of his newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

People in the news

LONDON (AP) — "She is in very good nick (condition). She should be riding again within a few weeks," says the royal physician who tended Princess Anne after her recent riding accident.

Dr. Richard Bayliss, physician to Anne's mother, Queen Elizabeth II, spoke with reporters Sunday at the King Edward VIII Hospital as Anne, looking pale and shaky, walked out unaided with her husband, Capt. Mark Phillips.

The 25-year-old princess was admitted Wednesday after suffering a slight concussion and back injury during a riding competition when the horse she was riding threw her over a fence, then fell and rolled on her.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Actor Walter Matthau was listed in satisfactory condition at a hospital here after undergoing a successful "by-pass procedure" heart operation.

Doctors at Daniel Freeman Hospital described the operation Saturday night as elective rather than emergency surgery.

Matthau, 52, stars in the current movie "Bad News Bears." A spokesman said he was expected to recover in time to begin work on a new film scheduled for production in early summer.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, April 26, the 117th day of 1976. There are 249 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1607, Capt. John Smith landed at Cape Henry, Va., with the first group of colonists who would establish a permanent English settlement in America.

On this date: In 1783, 7,000 Tories sailed from New York for Nova Scotia.

In 1785, the American naturalist and artist John James Audubon was born in Haiti.

In 1865, Abraham Lincoln's assassin, John Wilkes Booth, was captured on a farm near Port Royal, Va.

In 1925, Paul von Hindenberg was elected president of Germany.

In 1954, it was announced that 900,000 American children would receive injections in a nationwide test of Salk antipolio vaccine.

In 1964, the African nations of Tanganyika and Zanzibar merged, forming Tanzania.

Ten years ago: A sidewinder missile, launched by a U.S. jet, shot down the first Communist MIG21 of the Vietnamese war.

Five years ago: A presidential commission recommended that Communist China be admitted into the United Nations, with Nationalist China retaining its membership.

One year ago: Tens of thousands of labor union members marched and rallied in Washington, urging government action to provide more jobs.

Today's birthdays: Entertainer Carol Burnett is 42. Writer Bruce Jay Friedman is 46.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

Celebrating the Bicentennial is the name of the game this year in the stamp world.

Four souvenir sheets and a Benjamin Franklin commemorative stamp will be issued during the Seventh International Philatelic Exhibition in Philadelphia (INTERPHIL 76) starting May 29. The four souvenir sheets will be released opening day and the Franklin adhesive June 1. As previously reported in this column, the 13-cent INTERPHIL 76 stamp was issued Jan 17.

Three of the four souvenir sheets will depict scenes in or near Philadelphia — the Signing of the Declaration of Independence, Washington at Valley Forge and Washington Crossing the Delaware. The fourth sheet will show the Surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. The Benjamin Franklin stamp design will be based on a bust of the first Postmaster General.

The U.S. Postal Service has moved up one day the issuance of the 13-cent Commercial Aviation commemorative from March 18th to the 19th. If you have sent for your first day covers, all is in order. If you haven't, then you can send your request with proper remittance to: "Commercial Aviation Stamp, AMF-O'Hare, Chicago, Ill. 60666" prior to March 19.

In the Bicentennial vein, the Isle of Man pays tribute to America's 200th anniversary with a special set of four stamps. The set honors the contributions to the cause by Col. William Christian, whose father was born on the Isle of Man.

The 5½-pence shows Christian listening to his brother-in-law, Patrick Henry, making his famous speech "Give Me Liberty or Give Me Death."

The 7-pence illustrates Christian on horseback carrying the "Fincastle Resolutions" from the Freeholders of Fincastle County to a meeting in Williamsburg. The 13-p features Patrick Henry as Colonel and William Christian as Lt. Colonel of the 1st Virginia Regiment. The 20-p depicts Christian as frontiersman and Indian fighter. He was killed while leading a pursuit party against marauding Wabash Indians April 9, 1786.

Each stamp bears the inscription "American Revolution Bicentennial 1776-1976" and the Bicentennial emblem.

The Philatelic Foundation has made available two educational slide programs for stamp clubs at no charge.

The first is entitled "The Romance of Stamp Collecting." It consists of tapes and 106 color slides geared for the 10-17 age group. The second program is called "The Drama of Postage Stamp Creation" with tapes and 110 color slides. It is for an adult audience.

For details of these free programs write to Philatelic Foundation, 99 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10016.

The Judaica Historical Philatelic Society has prepared a special souvenir folder for use at INTERPHIL 76, honoring Haym Salomon and his heroic efforts during the Revolution. The folder contains a mint U.S. stamp and a mint Israeli stamp for the Bicentennial plus a flight cover Israel.

INTERPHIL, a facsimile of the original advertisement placed by Salomon in the Independent Gazetteer of Philadelphia, Feb. 28, 1784. The cost of the folder is $7.50 and it can be purchased from the Judaica Historical Philatelic Society, 80 Bruce Ave., Yonkers, N.Y. 10705.

The West African Republic of Togo has issued six new stamps honoring the Bicentennial and featuring on its designs well known paintings of famous personalities and important events. Depicted are: Frigates on the Hudson, George Washington by Gilbert Stuart, Surrender of Burgoyne by John Trumbull, Surrender at Trenton by Trumbull, Signing of the Declaration of Independence by Trumbull, and Washington Crossing the Delaware by Leutze.

A souvenir sheet bearing the declaration signing and the Delaware crossing was also released by Togo as part of this commemorative set.

Pakistan has issued the second in its series of commemorative stamps dedicated to wild life conservation. The new set consists of two stamps of identical design but different denominations featuring the urial (wild sheep).

MOUNT RUSHMORE National Memorial launches a 111-day Bicentennial observance, commemorating each of the states and the nation's protectorates, beginning May 21. The South Dakota landmark will honor each state in a series of 55 consecutive two-day observances.

THIS DAY
APRIL 26, 1777 — ON THIS DAY...ONE HUNDRED AND NINETY-NINE YEARS AGO...A FEMALE PRISONER REVERE GALLOPED THROUGH THE NEW YORK COUNTRYSIDE TO ROUSE THE MILITIA. HER NAME WAS SYBILL LUDINGTON AND SHE WAS ONLY SIXTEEN. WORD HAD REACHED HER FATHER, COLONEL LUDINGTON, THAT THE BRITISH WERE BURNING DANBURY, CONNECTICUT. THE MESSENGER SENT TO ALERT THE COLONEL ARRIVED COMPLETELY EXHAUSTED. SYBILL VOLUNTEERED TO SPREAD THE ALARM AND RODE THROUGH THE NIGHT. THE MILITAMEN RESPONDED AND THE NEXT MORNING DROVE THE BRITISH BACK TO THEIR SHIPS.

Deaths

Laudie L. Bagby

BERNIE — Laudie Lee Bagby, 78, of Route One died Saturday in Lucy Lee Hospital at Poplar Bluff.

Born Dec. 23, 1897 in Dixon, daughter of the late James and Mary Rosenthal Lewis, she had lived in the Bernie Parma area most of her life.

On March 18, 1912 in Wagoner, Okla., she married Joseph Bagby, who died Oct. 14, 1970. One son also preceded her in death.

Surviving are: two sons, Dirl Bagby of Parma Route One and Dallas Bagby of Bernie Route One; two daughters, Mrs. Deula Sutton of Pisalia, Calif. and Mrs. Ida Holmes of Jefferson City, three brothers, Don Lewis of Tulsa, Okla., and Floyd and Walter Lewis of Chelsea, Okla., one sister, Mrs. Josey Dicks of Claremore, Okla., and seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. today at Watkins & Sons Funeral Home at Parma by the Rev. Gene Griffin of Parma.

Burial followed in the Bernie Cemetery.

Janie LaRue

SHREVEPORT, La. — Janie Burns LaRue, 81, formerly of Dexter, Mo., died at 4 a.m. Sunday.

Born May 15, 1894 in south Indiana to the late Thomas and Sarah Burns, she had owned and operated Baker Hardware Store in Dexter for a number of years and was a member of the Christian Science Church in Poplar Bluff, Mo.

She is survived by one son, Thomas P. Baker of Dexter; one daughter, Mrs. Helen Evans of Shreveport, one sister, Mrs. Agnes Charlene Luss of Princeton, Ind.; and six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Friends may call after 7 p.m. today at Rainey Funeral Home in Dexter, where services are scheduled at 10 a.m. Tuesday with the Rev. Leon Slover officiating.

Following services, the body will be moved to Pleasant Ridge Cemetery in Winslow, Ind., where graveside rites and burial will take place at 4 p.m.

William Cantrell

William Cantrell, 76, of Route Two, died at 6:11 a.m. Sunday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital following a brief illness.

Born July 26, 1899 in Thayer, he was the son of the late Tom and Alice McDonald Cantrell.

His wife, Mrs. Audrey Lawson Cantrell, whom he married in 1924, preceded him in death. Two brothers and a sister also preceded in death.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Norma Taylor of Sikeston and Mrs. Mary Burnett of Middlebury, Ind.; four sons, Bill, Donald, Noel and Eugene Cantrell of Sikeston; one sister, Mrs. Ethel Tinkler of Lincoln, Neb.; two brothers, Noah Cantrell of Sikeston and Hosea Cantrell of Blodgett; and 27 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Friends may call at Crews-Welsh Funeral Home after 5 p.m. today.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Blodgett Church of Christ at Blodgett with E. A. Hanks, pastor of the Blodgett Church of Christ, officiating.

Burial will follow in the Blodgett Cemetery at Blodgett. Shelby Funeral Home of Charleston is in charge of arrangements.

Princess Anne injured in fall!

Britain's Princess Anne lies on the ground unconscious after her horse fell on her during the Portman Horse Trials in Dorset, England, Wednesday. The Princess, who was riding "Candlewick", owned by her Mother, Queen Elizabeth, was rushed to a nearby hospital to undergo a medical examination. The boots at right are those of her husband, Captain Mark Phillips, who was also competing in the event, and who rushed to his wife's aid.

Ex-convict goes on shooting rampage

JACKSON, Ga. (AP) — As he forged a bloody trail through Georgia and Florida, an ex-convict snorted cocaine and bragged about his shooting and kidnapping rampage that left three dead and 13 wounded. He ended the saga by killing himself, authorities say.

"When he talked about all those people being dead, he would laugh about it," said Susie Critton, a hostage who escaped unharmed. "He was smiling about it like he was glad. He had no regrets. He just kept talking and sniffing the cocaine."

Moses Pearson Jr., 31, apparently was angry at being cheated in a cocaine deal when he started the crime spree in his hometown of Jacksonville, Fla., on Saturday night, authorities said. He left two men dead there and six wounded.

Then he fled north into Georgia, killing a third man and wounding seven others.

Along the way, he abducted six women who escaped unharmed — three who drove him into Georgia and a Bay Village, Ohio, woman and her two teenage daughters, abducted on a Georgia highway.

Pearson began his rampage with three shootings within a 30-minute span in north Jacksonville, police spokesman Mike Gould said. At all three locations he demanded money.

"Robbery was at least a partial motive, but we feel there's a strong possibility of a drug tie-in in all those cases. Either he was ripped off or had been ripped off in the past," Gould said. "We know he had an argument with some of these people."

Gould said Pearson shot and killed Horace Allen, the manager of a used car lot, in Fall's office. Two others there were wounded. Gould said investigators believe a cocaine deal was the source of "bad blood" between Pearson and Allen.

As authorities reconstructed Pearson's wild odyssey, he then went to a roadside wig shop where he shot and killed the manager, George Quarles, 52, who had sworn out warrants for Pearson after a robbery at the shop last week.

After wounding three persons at the nearby home of a woman who worked in the wig shop, authorities said, Pearson abandoned his car at a drive-in liquor store and abducted Mrs.

Critton and Anita Cockfield, 22, and her sister Sharon, 18.

Pearson forced the women to drive him to a wooded area where he picked up a suitcase filled with money, two other guns and a change of clothes. Then they drove north to Georgia.

At a truck stop in Cordele, Ga., 170 miles north of Jacksonville, the four went inside for coffee. Mrs. Critton said. When Pearson allowed Sharon Cockfield to go to the bathroom, she managed to tell a waitress about the abduction.

When police arrived, Pearson wounded two deputies and two bystanders. The sisters escaped, but Pearson kept Mrs. Critton as he sped away.

In Pinehurst, 20 miles north of Cordele on Interstate 75, Pearson tried to rob a service station and, shooting wildly, killed attendant George Griffin Jr., authorities said. During the shooting, Mrs. Critton escaped.

A short time later, Pearson wounded another service station attendant in a robbery attempt on the highway north of Pinehurst.

Still driving north on I-75, authorities said, Pearson rammed into the rear of the car of the Leslie Janda family, heading home to Ohio after a Florida vacation. Pearson shot Janda in the arm, commandeered the car and abducted Mrs. Janda and their two teen-age daughters.

"Sometimes he was nice to us," Jodee Janda, 16, said later. "But he kept talking about how it's a white man's world and a black man can't even enjoy the birds, the trees and the sunshine."

But Carl Chappell, an agent for the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, said there was "nothing to indicate any racial angle at all" for Pearson, who was black. Chappell said the victims included both blacks and whites and "it wouldn't have mattered what color you were."

Janda said he flagged down a truck driver with a citizen's band radio who called police. Police set up a roadblock at Macon, but Pearson eluded it.

Forty miles from Atlanta, in Jackson, Pearson lost control of the car and crashed.

He shot once at Mrs. Janda but missed, and she fooled him by playing dead, authorities said.

Democrats receive strong impressions from the Midwest regional hearings

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Democratic Platform Committee will take along a strong impression of Midwest likes and dislikes this weekend when it goes to Denver for the last of four regional hearings.

Witnesses testified on a number of subjects — including the role of government, agriculture, abortion and gay liberation — when the platform committee held its third hearing here Saturday.

Dominating the day-long session was the belief that the party should continue its support of a strong federal government, although most witnesses agreed that spending must be controlled and unworkable programs revamped.

"It is crucial to the success of this platform that we stop automatically increasing overall domestic spending by holding current domestic programs at or below the current levels of government activities and services by rearranging our domestic spending priorities," claimed Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., chairman of the House Budget Committee.

Stronger federal involvement was also advocated in agriculture and the airline and trucking industries.

"Without a national philosophy for agriculture, this nation will continue to stumble from one agriculture problem to another," said Nebraska Gov. J. James Exon, "making irrational short-term policy decisions that are usually obsolete by the time they are implemented."

The matter of abortion came up when Stella Sollars of Kansas City, a member of the Right to Life organization, urged the party to support an anti-abortion resolution, saying, "It should be a chilling reminder to you that Adolf Hitler in 1930 as the head of the German Socialist party sanctioned abortion as a legal means to prevent unwanted babies..."

A member of the March for Life group, Patricia Goodson, said abortion should be a crime and breakers of the law should be subject to criminal prosecution.

Harvey S. Darnell of the Madison (Wis.) Committee for Gay Rights told the Democrats that many business and professional groups and large corporations are beginning to guarantee a policy of nondiscrimination for homosexuals and that Democrats should take heed.

Also coming under discussion during the hearing were federal efforts to reduce unemployment, the Equal Rights Amendment and neighborhood redlining.

The platform committee will draft its document in June for presentation to the National Convention in New York City in July.

Dowdy, 23, of Senath Route One. Dowdy and a passenger in his car, Darrell Swaine, 24, of Senath Route One, received minor injuries. Winkle received moderate injuries. All three were taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital at Kennett.

One person received minor injuries in a two-vehicle accident at 11:45 p.m. Sunday one mile west of Steele on Highway 164.

The accident occurred when an eastbound car driven by Howard Wright, 21, of Steele was making a right turn into a private drive and was struck from behind by a vehicle which left the scene.

Wright was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital at Hayti.

Regan campaign gains in Missouri

By PAUL STEVENS
Associated Press Writer
Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan's presidential campaign in Missouri gained considerable headway this weekend against the early lead of President Gerald Ford as the state's local Republican caucuses drew to a close.

But an over-all picture on how many delegates are in each candidate's camp was being hampered by a slow return of results and by an estimated one-third of the 1,439 Republican delegates who chose to remain uncommitted.

Ford forces—claiming victory in the state's two largest cities—express confidence they will carry Missouri's 49 delegates to the Republican National Convention. Thirty will be chosen in the district conventions May 8-15 while the remainder will be selected at the Republican state convention June 12.

However, the Reagan campaign in Missouri appears to be gaining momentum following the weekend caucuses in out-state areas.

"We're very elated about it," said John Powell, Reagan's state campaign chairman, Sunday night. "Actually it started turning our way about last Wednesday."

Reagan's biggest triumph came in the Greene County caucus at Springfield Saturday where he captured all 60 delegates to the 7th District convention. The county has about one-third of the district's delegates.

The outcome was no surprise to Ford campaigners, who stayed away from the traditionally conservative district, according to John Williams, Ford's state campaign chairman.

"The 7th District is very conservative and we didn't do much campaigning down there at all," he said. "We think the people will be Ford supporters once they get to the (national) convention but we didn't feel it was worth an intraparty struggle just to get 7th District votes."

Reagan also scored weekend victories in Boone County, where he claimed 21 of 22 delegates; Cape Girardeau, all 20 delegates; Newton County, all 13 delegates; Laclede County, all eight delegates, and Dunklin County, six of seven delegates.

Where does this leave the GOP contenders? According to their campaign chairmen, neither of whom will estimate a delegate breakdown, that is something to be learned this week.

"We'll be touching base with those chosen," said Williams, "solidifying those for the President and trying to convince those uncommitted to commit themselves to Ford."

In the Reagan camp, Powell said, "We'll be busy trying to find out where we stand. We haven't had time to do that, we've been trying to work on every day's convention."

Williams claims Ford is "in the majority for the state convention" and will win six or seven of the 10 district conventions.

Those districts in which Reagan appears to have the upper hand, Williams said, are the 7th, 8th (central Missouri including Columbia and Jefferson City) and 10th (from below St. Louis County to the Bootheel including Cape Girardeau).

"We'll take those districts," responded Powell. Reagan's chief campaigner, who in turn said he will concede to Ford the 1st and 2nd districts in the St. Louis metropolitan area and the 5th District in the Kansas City area.

The President captured about half of the St. Louis delegates with the other half remaining uncommitted, Williams said, while the margin in St. Louis County was about 70-75 per cent Ford and in Jackson County 55-60 per cent Ford.

According to Powell, most of the Reagan campaign effort will be aimed at the four districts that could go either way.

Since Reagan appears to hold an edge in Texas entering the primary, observers note that a Reagan loss would be a severe blow to his campaign — both nationally and in Missouri.

Families evacuate as the Mississippi swells

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Ten to 20 families were evacuated from this Mississippi River community Sunday as the swollen river rolled into low-lying areas.

The river, enlarged by weekend rains, was about a half-mile out of its banks along a 17-mile stretch north of here, according to Robert J. Long, Marion County civil defense director.

More than 60 Civil Defense workers and volunteers were standing by Sunday night to possibly evacuate more area residents by boat.

"I'm afraid some of them will get caught without realizing it," Long said.

The river was 19½ feet Sunday night, he added, and was expected to crest at 22½. Flood stage is 16 feet.

"It will be threatening some businesses in the Main Street area," he said. "There will be water in some of the basements by 8 or 9 in the morning because water has been coming in pretty rapidly. If the river reaches 23 feet, it will affect twice as many businesses."

Several streets were closed but Hannibal officials said they did not expect a major flood, such as when the river reached 29 feet in 1973.

Low-lying sections of U.S. 61 between Alexandria, Mo., and Keokuk, Iowa, were impassable Saturday because of flooding on the Des Moines River, according to the Marion County sheriff's department.

There also was some flooding on the Missouri RR near St. Joseph but it was primarily in lowland areas and no farmland or homes were affected.

The heavy rains caused flooding along creeks and streams in north-central Missouri but the Putnam County sheriff's office said it was not expected to endanger cropland or homes at this time.
